FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATION OF THE UNITED STATES MAGISTRATE JUDGE

Petitioner, a state inmate proceeding pro se, filed a federal habeas corpus petition under 28 U.S.C. § 2254, which was automatically referred to the magistrate judge. See 28 U.S.C. § 636(b) and Special Order 3. For the reasons that follow, it is recommended that the petition be dismissed for failure to exhaust state court remedies.

I. BACKGROUND

In August 2014, Petitioner pled guilty to unlawful possession of a controlled substance and was sentenced to 15 months imprisonment. See State v. Omohundro, No. F14-56003 (Crim. Dist. Court No. 4, Dallas County Aug. 22, 2014). On November 11, 2014, Petitioner filed an application for writ of habeas corpus pursuant to Texas Code of Criminal Procedure article 11.07, which is currently pending before the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. Ex parte Omohundro, No. WR-82,657-01 (received by Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Jan. 5, 2015). In his federal petition, filed January 8, 2015, Petitioner alleges his plea was involuntary and coerced and counsel rendered ineffective assistance. [Doc. 3 at 6].

II. ANALYSIS

A state prisoner must exhaust all available state court remedies before a federal court will consider the merits of his habeas claims. See 28 U.S.C. § 2254(b) and (c); Rhines v. Weber, 544 U.S. 269, 274 (2005). The exhaustion requirement is designed to "protect the state court's role in the enforcement of federal law and prevent the disruption of state judicial proceedings." Rose v. Lundy, 455 U.S. 509, 518 (1982). Exhaustion of state court remedies "is satisfied when the substance of the federal habeas claim has been fairly presented to the highest state court."

Morris v. Dretke, 379 F.3d 199, 204 (5th Cir. 2004) (quoting Mercadel v. Cain, 179 F.3d 271, 275 (5th Cir. 1999)). A Texas prisoner may satisfy that requirement by presenting both the factual and legal substance of his claims to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in a petition for discretionary review or in an application for a state writ of habeas corpus under Article 11.07 of the Texas Code of Criminal Procedure. Whitehead v. Johnson, 157 F.3d 384, 387 (5th Cir. 1998).

Petitioner has not satisfied the exhaustion requirement. A review of his petition and the state courts' docket sheets (available online) confirms that his state habeas application is presently pending before the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. Therefore, the Court of Criminal Appeals has not had an opportunity to consider Petitioner's claims and they remain unexhausted.

III. RECOMMENDATION

For the foregoing reasons, it is recommended that the petition for writ of habeas corpus be DISMISSED without prejudice for failure to exhaust state court remedies. See 28 U.S.C. § 2254(b) and (c).

SIGNED January 9, 2015.

A copy of this report and recommendation will be served on all parties in the manner provided by law. Any party who objects to any part of this report and recommendation must file specific written objections within 14 days after being served with a copy. See 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1); FED. R. CIV. P. 72(b). An objection that merely incorporates by reference or refers to the briefing before the magistrate judge is not specific. Failure to file specific written objections will bar the aggrieved party from appealing the factual findings and legal conclusions of the magistrate judge that are accepted or adopted by the district court, except upon grounds of plain error. See Douglass v. United Services Automobile Ass 'n, 79 F.3d 1415, 1417 (5th Cir. 1996).

¹ Petitioner is cautioned that there is a one-year statute of limitations for filing habeas corpus petitions in federal court, see 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d), and that this provision is applicable to this petition as well as to any other petition that he may file in this court. Thus, Petitioner should act diligently and expediently if, upon exhaustion in the state courts, he intends to seek habeas corpus relief in federal court.
